

About half of the arrays were properly converted into PIL images, and the other half failed with error `ValueError("not enough image data")` .

